The Human Resource Manager

Dear Sir/Madam,

I hereby wish to apply for a position in your organisation for which I am best qualified. I have much experience in computing, software development and training, internet and networking services as well as object oriented programming; however, I am flexible in regard to learning new skills and their best practices. I'm also quite efficient at creating new and sustainable processes and work flows.

I have provided details of my qualifications below. If you would like more details on these qualifications, I will be happy to provide them upon request.

I am a diligent worker and I can work well in team based environments. I believe that I can be a great asset to your organisation if given the opportunity.

I look forward to a personal interview with you in the near future.

Yours Respectfully

Dorian Lyder

A bit about me:

At heart, I'm a developer... I allow nothing to stop my progression in life. I enjoy life and I enjoy being productive. I also enjoy being outdoors in the elements and I love new scenarios and changing paces. Stagnation drives me crazy and I am passionate about what sparks my interest. I possess an insatiable curiosity along with an open ear, which normally leaves most claiming me to be wise beyond my years.

I have been working with the internet for roughly ten years and as a result, I can say that I am completely computer literate. In fact, there's hardly anything I can't do on a computer or at least figure out how to. My English and Mathematical skillset have expanded vastly as well...

Before that, I did many varied tasks which include cashing, hospitality, management and photography. My career path thus far, has mainly been in-line with the internet (although not limited to) and I have acquired much knowledge in regard to the delivery of large, mission critical projects, their management and their development from conception to project roll out. I have worked with several small local web companies as well as several large clients, in which a succession of projects, have met delivery. To name a few: Republic Bank Ltd, Movietowne and Buzz.tt.

Research and Development are my specialties.

Now, I look for company; company in which I may find solace, and in which that virtue may be reciprocated. I hope you may find some value in my outline and that we may soon meet in person to see how we can develop a longstanding and prosperous working relationship.

Here's a quick link to my most recent web project for your review.
